Register for Summer Institute

The N.C. Scholastic Media Institute welcomes students and teachers from across North Carolina. This “Rapid Response” workshop will focus on the digital world and the journalist’s responsibilities in it.

The online news sequence returns this year with special guest instructor Chris Waugaman, @cwaugaman.

Join us for a special session on taking your newspaper, yearbook, magazine or online site to the next level. National competition judges will participate.

Advisers are encouraged to join us for a special Journalism and the Common Core session.

The Institute is open to all advisers and to students who are rising ninth-graders through rising 12th graders.

The schedule includes 20 hours of instruction, plus time for a pizza party and student media swap shop.

Students may enroll in one of the following divisions: newspaper, yearbook, literary magazine, photojournalism, online news, desktop publishing or TV news. Advisers may enroll in any of those seven divisions, or they may enroll in the advising division.

Go to page 9 and register now.

Explore new sports media camp, June 27-30

The Carolina Sports Journalism Camp is now accepting applications. Rising high school juniors and seniors with an interest in sports and media are encouraged to apply.

Registration fee of $500 covers lodging, meals, camp T-shirt and press pass.

This four-day residential workshop includes sports play-by-play, sports writing, sports photography and much more. Students will be housed on UNC-Chapel Hill’s campus.

The camp includes classroom study and newsroom practice. It will feature visiting sports reporters and sports personalities. Students will take a behind-the-scenes tour of UNC’s sports media facilities. They will cover a press conference and experience a sports media deadline.

Students will join an undergraduate sports writing course taught by former Sports Illustrated writer Tim Crothers.

Go tojomc.unc.edu/csjc to register. Postmark deadline is May 1.
Common Core

The Summer Institute is always a blur of activity. I describe it to those in other states as a combination state convention + summer camp.

We host noted journalism instructors from across the country. Classes are scheduled from morning to night.

Students scurry around practicing deadline journalism while they are here; they write, edit, shoot, design.

We host a giant Swap Shop featuring all publications in the state’s high school media contest. We explore digital media literacy. We award cash scholarships.

We celebrate journalism.

Advisers at NCSMI

This summer members of the N.C. Scholastic Media Advisers Association will scurry around as well, as they work to help schools address scholastic journalism’s contribution to Common Core standards in English Language Arts.

We hope you will agree to assist with and participate in this project during our Adviser Institute Breakfast meetings June 19 and June 20. Please also consider becoming active in the Adviser Association.

National Convention Coverage

Advisers Association members will also be on hand to help other advisers plan for their students’ coverage of the first national political convention to be held in our state. If your students applied for press credentials to Charlotte 2012, plan to attend the adviser meetings addressing accommodations and logistics.

Kudos

Congratulations to Providence High’s yearbook Prowler for winning the Gold Crown from Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

Awards were announced in New York last month.

Gaston Day’s literary magazine Blutopia received the Silver Crown from CSPA.

West Henderson High’s yearbook WESTwInD won the Pacemaker Award from National Scholastic Press Association and received the Silver Crown from CSPA.

Get your students published

At the UNC-Chapel Hill Journalism School, I studied under several professors who made a great impact on me, among them Richard Cole, later dean of the Journalism School, and Jim Shumaker, the curmudgeon who was the model for the editor bird in the comic strip “Shoe.”

I learned a valuable lesson from them. Writing with prompts from a book isn’t bad, but writing something for class that I can submit to be published is much better. For two years, I have put this into practice with my students. The result has been a greater desire to write. Not coincidentally, twice as many students applied for newspaper staff than ever before.

Publish in the school newspaper

I found that at times my small newspaper staff was stretched to publish a 12-page issue. Once, my intro journalism students were doing a unit on writing reviews, so I offered several of the best ones to the student editors, who chose three. My students were thrilled when they opened the paper and saw their names in print and were eager to write more.

Publish online

With limited staffing, I used the intro journalism students and print staff to help us write online news. The students learned deadline writing by writing old pyramid-style news stories, but in online format. They wrote about sports and school events and saw their names online that same day or the next.

Blogging is also a great way for students to practice writing. I now teach online journalism as part of my coursework.

Publish in the local newspaper

I contact the local newspapers to let them know about our online edition. The Charlotte Observer has picked up articles and photos by our students, especially for regional publications. Weekly newspapers like our stories too. We’re trying out several ways of “shopping” our stories to local papers.

Letters to the editor were a good practice for class and excited my students. Students analyzed and followed the style and requirements for the forum for The Observer, then wrote letters. Three of my students had their letters published within a few days.

Offer your students’ services to local publications and broadcasters. One student landed a position as a teen art critic for a paper due to her work online. Students can be stringers for sporting events for weekly newspapers or radio stations. Often the stories they write for the school paper can be rewritten for the local papers.

Yearbook and broadcast

Offer photos to weekly newspapers and short stories to yearbook and broadcast news. Short broadcasts can be put together in a news-magazine format and put on a local cable access program. Web pages and YouTube are also a good way to get pictures and videos out.
We’ve all been there, and if you’re behind on a deadline like me, you’re probably there right now. You’re smack-dab in the middle of piles of papers, apathetic staff members, frantic parents and stubborn seniors. All this can really make you want to scream. But hey, maybe that’s not a bad idea! Here are some tips to staying calm in hectic situations:

1. STOP! Breathing Time: When you’re feeling like you’re being pulled in a million different directions and you don’t have enough hands to carry the work load, just stop. Take a moment to step back from your work desk, turn all the staff members away for a moment and take 5-10 slow, full breaths. Literally breathe in almost every color; take advantage of this! You can find post-it notes, highlighters, and pens in almost every color; take advantage of this! The feeling this brings is very similar to the feeling you get when you get home from school and flop on the couch: RELIEF!

2. Dance to the Sound of Your Worries: When you’re going over all the things you have to do for that day, it can be stressful enough just trying to remember them. With each syllable you say, move a part of your body. The goal here is to do The Robot, or any other favorite dance move, to the beat of your to-do list. This works some energy out of you, while also giving your brain two ways to remember something. (Note: dancing into a classroom has helped me relieve my stress and that of my adviser.)

3. Take a Floor Break: When you feel a headache coming on or the stress just makes you want to put your head on your desk and sob, take a floor break. Find a space on the floor out of the way of others, and lie on your back and breathe. The feeling this brings is very similar to the feeling you get when you get home from school and flop on the couch: RELIEF!

4. Be Right-Brained Undercover as a Left-Brain: Sometimes it’s easier to see everything as a whole. One thing my adviser taught me was to categorize, and more importantly colorize, everything. You can find post-it notes, highlighters, and pens in almost every color; take advantage of this! If you have five editors/deadlines/sections/projects, assign them each a color and lay everything out on a board or desk. This shows you that it’s possible to have everything in one place and that nothing is out of reach.

5. Write it Out, Man, Just Write it Out: You have a lot of things on your mind. You can’t possibly think about one more thing without your brain exploding and sending shrapnel into innocent onlookers nearby! If that’s the case, the only logical solution would be to free up some space in your brain. Take out some paper or your planner and write out what is on your mind, no matter what it pertains to. Having stuff on paper relieves you of the responsibility (and stress) of trying to remember it. Just like everyone will agree that out of sight is out of mind, I’m sure people will also agree that out of mind is most definitely out of mind!

6. Free Hugs: Make it a priority for every staff member to give and receive at least one hug per work session per day. In hectic situations when you’re ready to pull your hair out, it’s nice to feel loved. So here’s what you do: you get stressed, get up and hug someone; someone else is stressed, get up and hug them. Simple as that. It’s amazing how much feeling loved can help us be more driven towards productivity!

news in brief

Students from NC are invited to speak out about leadership

The NC Press Foundation invites North Carolina students to create an original essay or multimedia product to win prizes. High school scholars should address this prompt: “Identify one problem you want your community’s, state’s or nation’s leaders to address. Why did you choose that problem? What solution(s) do you propose?”

Students may submit an original 300-500 word essay or a multimedia product to respond to the prompt. All entries must be postmarked by June 1. Winners will be announced the week of July 4. They will meet with a local leader, receive a $100 cash prize, and have their work published.

Mail entries to: NC Press Foundation, Newspapers in Education, CB 3365, Carroll Hall, Chapel Hill, NC 27599-3365. For more information, visit www.allthingsvoting.org.

Apply for Quill and Scroll scholarship

Quill and Scroll seniors are encouraged to apply for the Richard P. Johns Award if they plan to major in journalism or mass communication. Awards will be given in the form of a scholarship for tuition, room and board.

Interested students must apply by May 10 for consideration. Submit two letters of recommendation, a personal statement of no more than 500 words, three samples of journalistic work and a small self-portrait. Visit www.uiowa.edu/~quill-sc/scholarships/scholarships.html for the application and more information.

NCSMA is now accepting nominations for the Kay Phillips Service Award

NCSMA advisers, associates, students or other school officials may nominate individuals for the Kay Phillips Distinguished Service Award. The award was established by the NCSMMA Executive Committee to honor those who have made significant contributions to scholastic journalism in North Carolina and/or to NCSMA. The award is named in honor of Kay Phillips, former director of NCSMA.

Each recipient must have contributed at least five years of service to scholastic journalism. Mail materials to: North Carolina Scholastic Media Association, 284 Carroll Hall, CB# 3365, UNC-Chapel Hill, Chapel Hill, NC 27599-3365. Or send nomination materials to ncsma@unc.edu. Nominations must be postmarked by May 25.

Advisers may apply for Journalism Teacher of the Year Program

The Dow Jones News Fund encourages teachers to apply for the 2012 National High School Journalism Teacher of the Year Awards program.

Teachers are required to have taught high school journalism or advised a newspaper, newsmagazine or news website for at least three years. Applicants may nominate themselves or be nominated by scholastic media groups, administrators, colleagues or students.

Winners will be honored as the Teacher of the Year, one of four Distinguished Advisers or as a Special Recognition award winner. The Teacher of the Year will address the fall convention of JEA/NSPA, attend a meeting for the American Society of News Editors, speak for the Columbia Scholastic Press Association and receive other prizes.

Nomination applications must be postmarked by July 1. See www.newsfund.org for a link to the application and more information.

Recipients will be announced at the summer Institute Awards Brunch on June 21.

Students may apply for individual awards from NSPA

NSPA sponsors individual awards for Story of the Year, Picture of the Year, Design of the Year, and Cartooning Awards.

The Story of the Year competition awards stories that show initiative and original reporting of an issue that affects students. Categories include News Story, Feature Story, Editorial/Commentary, Sports Story, Diversity Story and Multimedia Package. The first place winners (except Multimedia Package) will compete for the $1,000 Brasler Prize.

Student photographers should enter the Picture of the Year competition in News, Feature, Sports Action, Sports Reaction, Environmental Portrait and Jr. High/Middle School.

The Cartooning Awards are open to student NSPA member newspapers for Editorial Cartoon and Comic Strip/Panel.

The deadline for all individual awards is June 15. Winners will be announced at the fall National High School Journalism Convention on Nov. 15-18 in San Antonio. Forms for entry will be available in May.

For more information, visit www.studentpress.org/nspa/contests.html.

Institute in Boston offers classes to English and journalism teachers

The National Intensive Journalistic Writing Institute instructs English and journalism teachers how to incorporate journalistic writing techniques into AP English Language and Composition classes.

The institute trains teachers in using a journalistic basis for writing and how to integrate journalistic and rhetorical modes into their classes. Upon completing the institute, participants will be able to offer English Language and Composition courses at the junior or senior level.

Sessions will be held June 24-30. The institute will be held primarily at the headquarters of The Boston Globe, and off-site seminars will be held at historic and literary Boston landmarks. Teachers may attend UWI for two or three graduate hours of academic credit.

Lead instructors for the institute are Carol Lange, the 1991 Dow Jones Newspaper Fund National High School Journalism Teacher of the Year, and Ron Bennett, chair of the Communication Department at BYU-Idaho.

The fee for attending the institute is $400. A registration form and a $200 deposit is due by May 16. Housing is available at The College Club of Boston at a discount if registered by June 16.

For more information, email Carol Lange at Langejour@aol.com.

Principal of the Year Nomination

NCSMA and NCSMAA officers recognize the importance of the principal’s role with the annual Principal of the Year Award. The winner will be recognized at the Institute’s Awards Brunch on June 21.

Mail nomination letters postmarked by May 25 to NCSMA, School of Journalism and Mass Communication, 284 Carroll Hall, CB# 3365, UNC-Chapel Hill, Chapel Hill, NC 27599-3365. Selection will be made by the director and a panel of adviser officers.

Every school should examine the following criteria, patterned after those of national scholastic press associations’ principal awards:

• The principal has served in that position at the school for a minimum of three years.
• The principal provides support to more than one publication.
• The principal nurtures scholastic journalism principles, especially the First Amendment rights of advisers and students.
• The principal provides support by giving both time and actual help in providing the physical and technological needs of the journalism program.
• The principal recognizes the time demands placed upon advisers by the production of quality publications and works to make time for journalistic excellence.
• The principal supports the professional growth of advisers in every way possible.
• The principal supports the educational growth of students by encouraging them to attend journalism conventions, seminars, conferences and institutes.
• The principal supports the academic standards of the journalism and publications production courses, as well as the enrollment of students in those courses.
• The principal supports the school’s publications’ joining and receiving critiques from state, regional and national scholastic press organizations.

Kinston High student wins N.C. High School Journalist of Year Scholarship

Kinston High School journalist Resita H. Cox has been named the 2012 Rachel Rivers-Coffey North Carolina High School Journalist of the Year.

Cox serves as editor of her newspaper, The Viking Press, in Kinston.

Alternates are Amulya Uppalapati of First Flight High in Kill Devil Hills and Samantha Sabin of Northwest School of the Arts in Charlotte.

Since 2001 the North Carolina Press Foundation has funded the annual scholarship award in memory of Rachel Rivers-Coffey, journalist and former N.C. Press Association president.

NCPF will award a $2,000 scholarship to Cox. The two alternates will each receive $500.

The foundation will also award the winners’ journalism programs. The Journalist of the Year’s program will receive $500. The two alternates’ programs will each receive $250.

The Rivers-Coffey state scholarships will be awarded June 21 at UNC-Chapel Hill during the N.C. Scholastic Media Institute, our summer journalism workshop open to students and teachers across the state.
ADVISERS

Please note the following check list as you prepare for the statewide contest and Summer Institute:

- Review contest entry form on page 11. Note April 25 postmark deadline for online news, newspaper and newsmagazine entries. Postmark deadline for literary magazine, yearbook and TV news entries is May 25.

If your students’ yearbooks have not been shipped by that date, contact the NCSMA office as soon as possible. Judges will be in town June 4-6, so you may be able to make arrangements so that your student’s book can be critiqued.

- Review all Institute forms. Note that the enrollment fee is $200 if postmarked by May 15. (Students may mail a $50 deposit by that date to secure the $200 rate.) After that date, the rate increases to $210. Final postmark deadline for the Institute is May 25.

- Register 1-2 students for the new online news sequence.

- Photocopy pages 7-8 for each participant. (Students must have a signed release form in order to attend.)

- Note 12 opportunities for workshop funding for your students. These are listed adjacent to this checklist. NCSMI offers financial-aid, leadership, diversity and press rights workshop scholarships for Institute attendees.

- See The Rush application on page 10 for your advanced students. Encourage those seeking leadership opportunities to consider NCSMA office. That form is also on page 10.

- Nominate your principal or fellow adviser for awards described on page 4.

- Review Journalism Education Fellowship application on page 13. Consider applying for this free coursework opportunity.

“In my students come to the Institute and are able to receive instruction that is beyond my expertise. Each year we walk away with tools that I can immediately implement in the classroom. NCSMI has been an invaluable resource for me as I learn to become a better adviser. As a result, I have been able to see our publications improve year after year. The Institute offers practical learning opportunities that affect our staff, our publications, and ultimately our student body.”

DISA PERRY
Fayetteville Christian School

Institute Scholarships

NCSMI will award five full-tuition diversity scholarships, five full-tuition financial-aid scholarships, one full-tuition leadership scholarship and one full-tuition press rights scholarship. These Institute scholarships will be applied toward the $200 registration fee.

Applicants may write short letters or emails discussing their career aims and why they want to attend NCSMI. Or advisers may write supporting letters or emails stating why their students should receive the award. Applications should be postmarked by May 25. Note: Priority will be given to those applications postmarked or emailed by May 15.

Financial Aid

Four of the five $200 financial-aid scholarships are named in memory of NCSMA associates:

- The Elizabeth Anna Windsor Scholarship
  In memory of the daughter of Salem adviser Kay Windsor and her husband. Elizabeth died Oct. 11, 1996.

- The Oran Perry Scholarship
  In memory of longtime Kinston High adviser Oran Perry, who died Feb. 3, 1998.

- The Paula Carole Faircloth Scholarship
  In memory of the daughter of Clinton High adviser Mary Lou Faircloth and her husband.

- John Bittner Scholarship
  In memory of the former UNC-CH professor of electronic communication.

Diversity

Five NCSMI scholarships are available to students of diversity.

Leadership/Press Rights

These $200 Institute scholarships were established in February 2005.

- The Chuck Stone Institute Scholarship for Courage of the Press
  Named in honor of former UNC-CH professor who was an advocate for student press rights. This scholarship is given to a student who respects student press freedoms.

- The Richard Cole Institute Scholarship for Editorial Leadership
  Recognizes a student who has exhibited exemplary leadership. Cole is a former director of NCSMA. During his 26 years as dean of the j-school, he hailed the association as one of the most important outreach efforts of the School.
FEES
Each workshop participant will pay a $200 individual fee — if postmarked by May 15 or a deposit is made by May 15. After that date, the fee is $210. This fee covers registration costs, faculty, lodging for three nights in the residence hall, entertainment events, awards and the Awards Brunch. Except for the pizza party and awards brunch, meals are not included. Students may secure meals on campus in Lenoir Hall, or in the many restaurants on nearby Franklin Street. Commuters will pay a $140 fee. If a participant has to cancel before June 1, a 50 percent refund will be made. No refund can be made after June 1 because of budgetary obligations.

HOUSING
Students will stay in Morrison residence hall. All rooms are air conditioned. They will need to bring their own pillows, towels, washcloths and bed linens. Registration June 18 will begin at 9:30 a.m. and end at noon. Check-out will follow the Awards Brunch on June 21. Advisers will be housed together in rooms near their students. Advisers without students may also stay in Morrison.

CONDUCT
Advisers must duplicate the code of conduct form, have each participating student and a parent or guardian sign them, collect the signed forms and bring them to registration. Advisers should also prepare, have signed and keep with them permission forms and medical (including insurance) information.

PARKING
Parking passes for the Institute will be distributed to each school requesting parking on the basis of one per every increment of four people coming by car, a distribution that will take place at the registration desk June 18. (See parking request on the enrollment form.) For loading and unloading at registration, advisers should park temporarily and be prepared to move vehicles to assigned decks.

The Institute is not responsible for parking tickets, and anyone who parks in spaces other than those allotted WILL get a ticket.
OPEN LETTER TO PARENTS & GUARDIANS

Dear Parent or Guardian:

Students and teachers are looking forward to summer for many reasons. One of the best is that we have the opportunity to attend a workshop to improve our journalistic skills. We want to tell you about the North Carolina Scholastic Media Institute at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, so that you can help your son/daughter attend these 20+ hours of hands-on instruction in lifelong skills. Dates are June 18-21.

Your son/daughter will choose one of the following seven divisions: online news, desktop publishing, literary magazine, newspaper, photojournalism, TV news or yearbook. Students will learn how to combine writing, design and photography into first-rate publications and websites. Those in the TV news division will learn how to produce, direct, edit and announce. All students will gain hands-on experience in the division they choose to attend.

Workshop General Information:

- Housing: Students will be housed in the same dormitories used by UNC students all year. This year housing is in Morrison residence hall with parking for advisers’ cars and school buses in campus parking decks. All students will come with their advisers or with a parent the adviser has selected, and groups from the same school will be housed together. Advisers will monitor the residence halls so that workshop participants can study and live comfortably with their neighbors. All students will be required to be in the residence hall by 10:30 p.m. and in their own rooms and quiet by 11:30 p.m., with rooms checked by advisers. Lights must be out by midnight.
- Faculty: Top-notch instructors from North Carolina and the nation will assist students in learning the best journalistic techniques.
- Other Rules and Regulations: All rules in effect at N. C. high schools are in effect at the Institute, and students are expected to work with advisers, faculty and staff to make the Institute an enjoyable time for learning. Rules will be strictly adhered to, and anyone not following the rules will be sent home at his or her expense. Participants and parents/guardians must submit a signed Code of Conduct and Release form, as well as insurance policy numbers for emergency medical treatment.
- Registration: Cost of the workshop is $200 per participant if postmarked by May 15 ($210 after May 15 and $140 for commuters), with the final postmark deadline of May 25. This fee covers tuition, housing and two meals. Participants will need to purchase remaining meals (generally costing about $8 in fast food restaurants on Franklin Street and in dining halls).
- Refunds: In case a participant has to cancel before June 1, a 50 percent refund will be made. No refund can be made after June 1 because of budgetary obligations. Finding a replacement is best if a person must cancel after the form is mailed.

Now that you know at least the highlights about this summer program and a little about how much students can learn in preparation for next year, we hope you will consider its benefits and help your daughter/son attend. Please contact me at the school if I can be of further help to you.

Sincerely,
CODE OF CONDUCT

ADVISERS: Please read thoroughly. Duplicate this page, have each participant and parent/guardian sign it and bring the signed forms with you to the Institute registration desk on Monday, June 18 between 9:30 a.m. and noon. This signed form must be in the hands of Institute staff before registration will be considered completed.

1. All students at the Institute must be accompanied by an adviser or chaperone approved by his or her school, at least one adult per 12 students.
2. Advisers and chaperones must know where their students are at all times and enforce all school rules. They must make sure students are attending all classes in which they are enrolled and check on students at lights out to be sure they are in their rooms and quiet.
3. Inappropriate, dangerous or rude behavior in the dorms and misuse or destruction of University property is not acceptable and will lead to the participant’s paying financial reparation to the University and other severe consequences to anyone involved. Students found misbehaving will be asked to leave, forfeiting fees, with Institute officials reserving the right to send disruptive students home at their parents’ expense.
4. Students must be in classes when classes are in session. Roll will be taken in each class, and assistants will notify advisers of students missing class.
5. Students must be in the dorm by 10:30 p.m. and quiet in their own rooms by 11:30 p.m., with exceptions made for advisers working on class projects with groups in rooms or in dorm lobbies. Lights-out is midnight.
6. Smoking, drinking or possessing alcoholic beverages, and using or possessing illegal drugs are not allowed. All rules in effect at N.C. high schools are in effect at the NCSMA Institute, with all Institute advisers acting as teachers with jurisdiction over all students at the Institute.
7. It is recommended that students NOT drive to the Institute. Parking is at a premium, and traffic is heavy. If an adviser deems it necessary for a student to drive to Chapel Hill, it is recommended that the adviser collect keys from student drivers. Students will not be allowed to drive during the Institute.

Release and Indemnity Agreement & Consent for Medical Treatment

As a part of the consideration for my/my child’s participation in the North Carolina Scholastic Media Institute, I hereby release, hold harmless, and forever discharge The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, its employees and agents, from any and all liability, claims, demands, actions, and causes of action whatsoever arising out of or related to any loss, property damage, or personal injury, including death, that may be sustained by me or my child or to any property belonging to me or my child while participating in such activity, except damages or injuries that are attributable to the negligence of the University, its employees or agents. I am aware of the risks and hazards associated with this activity, including travel to and from the activity, and I acknowledge that I am/my child is required to follow the code of conduct printed on this page. I acknowledge that my/my child’s participation in this activity is elected by me and not required. I voluntarily assume full responsibility for any risk of loss, damage, or personal injury, including death, and any property damage that may be sustained by me or my child as a result of such activity. I hereby give permission to N.C. Scholastic Media Association to use my/my child’s name and photographic likeness in all forms and media, including the N.C. Scholastic Media Association newsletter, The Scoop.

By return of this form, I agree to inform the N.C. Scholastic Media Association of any health or medical condition or need that may affect my/my child’s participation in this program. I understand that I must make provision before my/my child’s arrival in Chapel Hill for continuation of medical treatments such as prescriptions or special diets. In the event of illness or injury, I hereby authorize the program directors, staff, or other agents to obtain emergency or other medical treatment for me/my child as deemed necessary, including administration of an anesthetic or other medication and surgery, and I hereby assume the cost of such treatment. I understand that this authorization is given in advance of any specific diagnosis, treatment, or hospital care being required but is given to provide authority and power on the part of the University to give specific consent to the diagnosis, treatment, or hospital care which in the best judgment of a licensed physician is deemed advisable.

This release and hold harmless agreement is binding on myself, my child, my heirs, my assigns, and personal representatives. By signing on the line designated for signature of parent or guardian below, I acknowledge that I am the parent or guardian of ______________________________, that I am 18 years old or more, and that, if my child is age 18 or more, I am signing this form to indicate that I am aware of its contents and the contents of the code of conduct.

Advisers and chaperones

An adult must accompany all students. NCSMA requires that one adviser or parent attend for every 12 students enrolled. Advisers should indicate CEU program (Y=yearbook, N=newspaper, P=photojournalism, D=desktop publishing, L=literary magazine, A=advisor curriculum, T=TV News). Unless otherwise requested, advisers will be enrolled in advanced divisions. The adviser curriculum is recommended for all first-year advisers. Please include the home address, phone number and e-mail address of each adviser or parent attending, so we can reach you after school is out. NOTE: The NCSMI tuition fee will be waived for an adviser who accompanies 10 or more students.

Students

Enroll each student in only one division. Students will be expected to attend the division in which they are enrolled. Enrollment is not limited.

Division codes:

- D1 / Beginning desktop publishing*
- D2 / Advanced desktop publishing*
- L / Literary magazine
- N1 / Beginning newspaper
- N2 / Advanced newspaper
- O / Online news
- P1 / Beginning photojournalism*
- P2 / Advanced photojournalism*
- T / TV news
- Y1 / Beginning yearbook
- Y2 / Advanced yearbook

* limited two students per level

Read about the divisions on page 5 to ensure your students are enrolled in the proper divisions. Bring as many students as you wish if your form is postmarked by May 25. Copy this form as necessary. Attach a rooming list; if you choose not to, NCSMA will assign rooms. Please print clearly.

-Please list additional student registrants on a separate sheet-

Parking

Each school is allowed one (car/van) parking pass per every four people attending the Institute. Please enter the number of parking passes your school will need. NCSMA is not responsible for any parking tickets. Parking passes will be distributed at registration. Commuters from the same school will need to carpool.

How many (car/van) parking passes do you need?

Or do you plan to travel by school bus? __________________________

NCSMA LEADERSHIP OPPORTUNITY

Student candidates will run for six NCSMA offices during the summer Institute. These students should be rising juniors or seniors who are active on their school’s publications staffs and are interested in the improvement of scholastic media throughout the state. They should be able to attend both the 2012 and 2013 summer Institutes. To apply, please e-mail or mail this form with a photo and at least one paragraph stating your journalism experience and campaign platform. Voting will take place during the first class Tuesday, June 19.

Officers’ Duties

NCSMA’s president presides at the opening and closing sessions of the Institute, works closely with the director during the year, and serves on the Institute Planning Committee. He or she must attend two policy-making sessions during the year. The student president will lead all student activities. Vice presidents serve on the Institute Planning Committee and work with the director and the president to carry out Institute activities. They must attend one policy-making session and participate in one conference call during the year. Officers will conduct the elections for the next year. In the event the president is unable to perform his or her duties, the vice presidents will divide those duties among themselves. Officers may contribute articles for the NCSMA Scoop and give an Institute activities report. Running for an NCSMA office is a serious decision. Please consider whether you will be able to fulfill all requirements during the year before deciding to run.

Institute Campaign Rules

All candidates must complete this form and e-mail or mail it to the director by May 25. All candidates must write paragraphs stating their journalism experiences and their campaign platforms and send pictures to be used on a candidate flier designed by NCSMA. Only one person from a school may run for an NCSMA office. There will be no nominations taken from the floor at the Institute. Each candidate may be asked to address Institute participants in a five-minute speech addressing goals for NCSMA.

NCSMA funds graduate course for journalism advisers

NCSMA’s Journalism Education Fellowship Program allows teachers to enroll in a one-week, short-term summer course with tuition funding and lodging provided by NCSMA.

N.C. journalism teachers and media advisers can qualify for free in-state tuition, lodging and books through this program.

The fellowships, awarded on a first-come, first-served basis, are valued at $1,230 per person. NCSMA covers all of these expenses.

The short-term course will be scheduled July 8-14. Class meets 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Advisers may earn three hours of graduate credit.

“Teaching Online News in the Secondary School” will offer advisers instruction in online publishing technologies, search engine optimization, writing for the Web, writing a FAQ using Dreamweaver, creating a blog in WordPress, using social media for news, designing and hosting a site, video and audio basics and more.

This graduate-credit course was designed for N.C. high school journalism teachers two years ago. The course is not scheduled for summer 2013, so advisers are encouraged to apply for this 2012 opportunity.

If your students hope to take their publication online — or if they have already done so — consider enrolling in this course and exploring way to teach and advise digital media.

Please submit your application postmarked by May 1.

See adjacent application.

Leadership Opportunity: Join N.C. Scholastic Media Advisers Association Board

Advisers who are willing to serve as a NCSMAA officer or regional representative should contact current president Bill Allen at bill.allen@cms.k12.nc.us.

Allen will discuss leadership opportunities with advisers during NCSMI 2012. The new slate of officers will be announced at the NCSMI Awards Brunch on June 21.
